

Marc Dreyer

Marc Dreyer has an international career at Nestlé in R&D, Operations and People Development. In R&D, he was driving the Product and Technology Developments and ensuring the technical support for a major product category of the group. In operations, he was factory manager in Germany (with a restructuring) or in China (for a start-up), and had various assignments in Malaysia and Canada related to operation excellence. In People Development, he has developed the career development frameworks (Training, Career Plans) and competencies planning for the R&D. He is holding a Biochemical Engineering degree, a Master in Management and a PhD.